Who It Is For

- ✓ Campers and RV users needing portable charcoal cooking
- ✓ People who regularly grill for two to four people
- ✓ Buyers who want a lockable grill for transport
- ✓ Users who prefer simple ash cleanup

Who It Is Not For

- ✗ Those who cook for large groups or events
- ✗ People who want gas or electric grills
- ✗ Buyers needing heavy commercial or full-size grills
- ✗ Users who require multiple burners or large racks

Trade Offs to Consider

- Small cooking area limits simultaneous batches
- Charcoal fuel means longer startup and ash
- Lightweight metal may be less rugged long-term
- Single rack and warming shelf limit capacity

How It Compares

---

- Versus full-size charcoal grills: much smaller cooking area and capacity
- Versus gas grills: charcoal-only flavor with ash and longer prep
- Versus similar portables: includes 3-point locking lid and ash catcher

Choose This If...

- ✓ You need a lightweight charcoal grill for small groups
- ✓ You want a lockable lid for safe transport
- ✓ You value built-in vents and an ash catcher

Skip This If...

- ✗ You regularly cook for large gatherings
- ✗ You prefer gas or electric grilling
- ✗ You need heavy-duty commercial construction
