Who It Is For

-  Owners of 18-inch or larger kamado grills
-  Home cooks who roast whole chickens and ribs
-  People who want a reusable grease-catching pan
-  Cooks who bake pizza or cakes on a grill
-  Users who prefer dishwasher-safe stainless cookware

Who It Is Not For

-  People with grills smaller than 18 inches
-  Shoppers who require a non-stick coated pan
-  Those roasting very large turkeys needing deep pans
-  Buyers who need pans with built-in handles or lids

Trade Offs to Consider

---

-  Stainless steel resists rust but is not non-stick
-  Two-inch depth catches grease but limits large roasts
-  11x11 footprint fits many grills but not all
-  Light 1 lb weight makes handling easy but reduces heat storage

Users Say

---

● POSITIVES

- ✓ Dishwasher safe for quick cleaning
- ✓ Durable food-grade stainless steel
- ✓ Multi-use for roasting pizza and more

● COMPLAINTS

- ⚠ May not fit grills under 18 inches
- ⚠ Two-inch depth limits large roasts
- ⚠ Stainless steel is not non-stick

How It Compares

- Versus non-stick pans: higher temp tolerance but not non-stick
- Versus cast iron: lighter and dishwasher-safe but less heat storage
- Versus disposable foil pans: reusable and more durable
- Versus larger 13-inch pans: smaller diameter and shallower depth

Choose This If...

- ✓ You own an 18-inch or larger kamado-style grill
- ✓ You roast chicken ribs or bake pizza on the grill
- ✓ You want a dishwasher-safe stainless drip or grease pan
- ✓ You use rib racks or turkey roasters with  $\leq$ 13-inch bases

Skip This If...

- ✗ You need a non-stick cooking surface
- ✗ You regularly roast very large turkeys needing deep pans
- ✗ Your grill cooking grid is under 18 inches
- ✗ You require pans with handles or lids
